Weather

- — Areas of fog in parts of Hungary, and the Balkans will gradually clear through the morning. Unsettled across the UK, Benelux, Germany, E-France, the Alps and Italy, with areas of persistent rainfall and at times low cloud. Within this, a local risk of ISOL / CLST CB (tops FL180-250) exists embedded within the rainfall across W-Italy and the Tyrrhenian Sea. This rainfall moves east through the day into central Europe and the Balkans, bringing areas of low cloud, persistent rainfall and locally strong winds in the Balkans. Behind it, low pressure drives a broad area of showers, isolated thunderstorms (ISOL CB, tops FL180-280) and fresh to strong winds across parts of W & NW Europe, particularly France, but also Belgium, Germany, N-Iberia and the S-UK. Low pressure over the Baltic Sea brings a risk of rain and snow to Sweden and Finland, with strong winds across Poland and the Baltics this morning.

Aerodromes

- LGAV (Athens) — Arrivals and departures are regulated due to Aerodrome Capacity (WIP, single RWY OPS). Moderate to high delays.

Airspace

- — No significant issues.
